Excerpt: .pay chute on the Oregon Belle was developed successively by the levels today known as the fifth, fourth and third. The number one tunnel has not yet been run sufficiently far to encounter the pay chute in the bottom, but the raise that connects the number one tunnel with the number two has opened the same on the north side. This establishes definitely the pitch of the pay chute. The owners have little fear of failing of encountering it. This level will give GON BELLE MINE. an elevation of 3,300 feet and this tunnel level will open the cents vein a thousand feet below the crest of the mountain. The property is situated ideally otherwise. There is abundance of timber and water for milling and domestic purposes, while geographically, it is twelve miles from Jacksonville, the county scat, accessible from Forrest creek by wagon...
